LOWER NERETVA VALLEY TRANSBOUNDARY WETLAND

- LEARNING ABOUT THE ENVIROMENT

The best way to learn about enviromentalism at schools is to get keen on doing it yourself.
Implementing their knowledge the students and teachers did a great deal of gardening

• VOICE ABOUT DESTRUCTION

- in order to raise up their voice against destructions of habitats, students found their essential leisure time to make models of local vegetation, which is on the red list: water lilies, bulrush, as well of endangered bird species as heron, waterhen and frogs,

THE TRUPA

- The only way to visit this untouched jewellery is by "Trupa", a primitive boat made of a single log. This vessel survived through centuries and is today's inseparable part of photo-safari trips

LOCAL CULTURE

- Sample model of doll wearing traditional folk costume, made by our students out of recycled paper material

QUISINE

- Authentic local dishes made in the quisine of our school by students cooks. They presented typical meals: river fish stew(eels and snails), fresh fruit(tangerines) and home made dessert
